

The Journal of Quantitative and Technical Economics Has Been Recorded By The Worldwide Authoritative Economical Literature Index—Econlit

After examining the access for a long time and strict evaluation, our journal received an official letter signed by Liz Braunstein, chief supervisor of American Economic Association (AEA) EconLit on June 16th, 2014. It informed us that our journal has been recorded since January, 2013. Since then, our journal has become one of two recorded Chinese journals by EconLit among mainland of China.

American Economic Association was founded in 1885. It is one of the most important and authoritative academical organizations in the economical circle. The American Economic Review issued by AEA is renowned among economical circle. Journal of Economic Literature set up by AEA receives usual recommendation and comprehensive approval for its strict quality standard and high threshold. EconLit also records all English economical journals of SSCI and few economical journals which are regarded as highest quality level in different languages and in different countries. It is an important norm that academic authorities use to evaluate level of academic writings.

Being recorded by EconLit is a significant event that our journal is going worldwide and an important milestone of setting up and developing our journal. We will carry the spirit of fairness and justice as well as professional integrity of perfectionism. We will keep offering economical essays with international advanced level and promoting our reputation and strength in order to make it a renowned journal with international influence.
