

Paper Submissions (No201502)

According to guidelines of project application (2015) from National Social Science Fund and innovation engineering research from Chinese Academy of social Sciences, together with characteristics of the study on quantitative and technical economics, paper submissions are welcomed based on these topics:

1. Quantitative study on comparison among development of high-tech industries in emerging big powers;
2. Comparison between Gini coefficient of wealth in China and abroad and Gini coefficient of income.
3. Study on reducing costs of commercial financing and financial service innovation.
4. Study on Companies “go global” and financial support.
5. Study on developing finance of inclusive well-being.
6. Application study increase value based on analysis of import-export trade.
7. Theories and methods of planning natural resources balance sheet.
8. Methods and application of including eco-system into inclusive wealth account.
9. Study on development path of strategic emerging industries in China.
10. Study on optimal technical innovation mode.
11. Economical evaluation and application of investment with consideration on environmental costs.

Welcome scholars and researchers to submit papers to our journal. All papers should be subject to the following guidelines:

1. Papers should cover sufficient evidence, rich content, profound thoughts, and distinct opinions and be reasonable, feasible and valuable for decision making of communist party and the government.
2. There are no limits to paper length and argument form. Authors whose papers are accepted will get favorable reward.